Attorney General John Ashcroft
US Department of Justice, 950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20530-0001

Dear Attorney General Ashcroft:

I am writing this letter to inform you of my feelings concerning the Department of Justice and its suit against Microsoft. It is my strong belief that the department of Justice has gone overboard with this suit.

I have been a user of the Windows operating system and feel that it has provided me with a simple and very efficient way to use the capabilities of my PC. I feel that the simplification of an operating system, Windows, is an advantage because it offers a more uniform approach to operations and applications.

The animosity felt towards Microsoft by a select few should be refocused to more pressing matters. Microsoft has done a lot of things to benefit the nation and all the way down to the local community level.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and I hope you share my belief that no more federal action is warranted in this matter.

Sincerely,

Pat Walker
